

Yearnings.

I want to trail back to the field and the wool
Where rhyms are kissing the trees,
Where rivers sing softly their rhythms of peace
And melody rides on the breeze.

I want to go back to the old bayou bridge
And angle for fish with a pin.
To feel once again all the thrills I have known
At hooking and landing a fin!

I want to return where the gooseberries grow.
Where choke-cherries pucker your throat—
I want to go pondilly hunting once more
In Stewart's old, flat-bottomed boat.

I want to be lost in the heart of "The Run."
Where squirrels and owls have their nests;
I want to flop down on my back 'neath
the stars
And worship the blue through their crests!

I want to go barefoot along the old trail
That leads to the clover-decked hills
By ways that are winding, where bushes hang low
And whisper their loves to the rills!

I want to go back and just splash in the creek
And let the cool cedar run fast—
Run over and under, and scold as it leaves,
The hands it has known in the past!

I want to wade out where the sand-bar is heaped
In diamonds that sparkle with light—Just wade and get gopping clear up to my waist
And holler—and yell—in my might!

I want to run down to "The Quarry,"
"The Hill," "The High bank" and
"The Strand"—
Let me stand all enthroned where my boyhood was spent.
Take me back to my own Fairyland!

Take me back where the roses are sweet with perfume
Where the breeze sing a song that is just Take me back, let me feel in my heart
once again
Just the God-given joy of a lad!

And now the good citizen does not wait for the Macedonian cry from the village paper to burn those leaves! He takes time and the rake by the forelock and gets busy early.

If some men were as particular about getting up when they are called as they are about winding their alarm clocks, wives would be saved a heap of nagging.

A lady disciple of Rooseveltian spelling has married a Chicago proofreader. She desires to reform him, I presume.

I Come to Thee.
I come to thee, O my darling!
Faint with the longing of years,
Weak with unsatisfied passion,
And burnt with the scolding tears.

I have come from the Town of Ambition,
Through the Wood of the Heart-Sick
Dove,
To dream in the Temple of Beauty,
And feed on the Niles of Hich.

Non-Appreciative.
Having announced his text, an old colored preacher down in Georgia, as related by the Atlanta Constitution, went on to say: "My attention has been drawn to the fact that some secondhand has gone 'n' put a siltiger in de pulpit, right under my two foots;
but, long as ez dar, I gwine let him stay 'twel after de benediction; fer I notice dat, des lak de res' er' you triflin', no 'count sinners, he done made up his mind ter take it easy op sleep through de sermon!"

Woman.
Oh, woman, you are charming,
And poets long have sung
Their sweetest verses to you
In every written tongue!
But none of them has ever Told why it is that you Will always leave a street car at the corner.

Song of an Editor.
This is the season for plantin' seed,
And 'tis also the printer's time of need.
Sow radish seed and lettuce, too, and pay the printer whatever is due. Go build yourself an onion bed and remember the printer must get 'em. Plant some potatoes to put 'em in and remember the printer is short of cash. Fix up a hill or so of beans, and with the editor divide your means. Of water-melons you'll need a patch—the editor's pants needs one to match. Pay up your subscription, plant your corn, and you'll raise a big crop as sure as you're born.— Henry (Quis.) Eagle.

Not Very Good.
The man who is good only while he is watched is hardly worth saving.

THE WORLD'S TWO FOREMOST AVIATORS AND THEIR SISTER WHO RECENTLY RETURNED FROM SUCCESSFUL FLIGHTS IN EUROPE.

Few American celebrities have been accorded the demonstrative welcome which greeted the Wrights as they entered New York harbor from an airship conquest of Europe. After being extensively feted in New York city they proceeded immediately to their home in Dayton, O., where they will construct an aeroplane for the United States government. June 17 has been selected as Wright Day in their home city and the entire week will be given over to festivities honoring these inventors who seem to have solved the problem of the ages, air navigation.

Man With the Conundrum.

The man with the fretful eyebrows and the sorrowful ears comes to the desk of the man with the dispirited mustache and asks:

"Why is a man who goes on an expedition to discover the south pole and after many months of toil and privation driving which he eats all his canned goods and half of his dogs and then returns to civilization with a fixed appetite for foot heels and hat brims—why is he like a woman who has been waiting impatiently since midnight for the sound of the latch-key as her husband endeavors to unlock the front door without awakening the entire neighborhood?"

The man with the discouraged mustache shakes his head impatiently, and the other repeats the question, whereupon the man with the discouraged mustache asks:

"What is the difference between a lady reading a hair restorer ad. and a man who asks fool questions when you are busy? Answer—Because they are both about ready to die."

"Oh, very well!" sniffs the man with the fretful eyebrows and the sorrowful ears. The answer to mine is that both are getting ready to deliver a lecture, but I wouldn't tell you if you pleaded with tears in your eyes."

And with a naughty tread he departs.—Chicago Post.

Stevenson and Dreams.

Robert Louis Stevenson owed much of his inspiration to dreams. In one passage he attributed some of his finest work to the "brownies" who tenanted his brain during moments of unconsciousness. "The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" owes its origin to a dream. "I had long been trying to write a story on this subject," writes Stevenson, "to find a body, a vehicle, for that strong sense of man's double being which must at times come in upon and overwhelm the mind of every thinking creature. For two days I went about racking my brains for a plot of any sort, and on the second night I dreamed the scene at the window and a scene afterward split in two, in which Hyde, pursued for some time, took the powder and underwent the change in the presence of his pursuers. All the rest was made awake and consciously, although I think I can trace in much of it the manner of my brownies."

Double Quick Composing.
Sir Arthur Sullivan wrote the overture to "The Yeomen of the Guard" in twelve hours and that to "Iolanthe" in less space of time—from 9 p. m. to 7 a. m. But even this capacity for speed in composition is eclipsed by M. Bonnard, who for a wager composed the music to a song in ten minutes. Mr. N. Trotere, however, is the composer of whom most quick time anecdotes are told. His beautiful song "Astrothe" was both written and composed in forty minutes in Blanchard's restaurant. The melody of "In Old Madrid" was the result of a sudden inspiration. It came to the composer while on his way home from the aquarium. Lest it should escape him he rushed into a small public house in Rochester row, seized a biscuit bag and on it jotted down the air. But Mr. Trotere holds the championship. It is said that he actually composed "The Brow of the Hill," wrote a letter and ran 400 yards to post it in eight minutes.—Dundee Advertiser.

Odd Names in China.
Chinese children are endowed with strange Christian names. Their girls, for instance, are not called Mahel, Jenny or Matilda, but Cloudy Moon, Celestial Happiness, Spring Peach or Basket of Perfumes. Their boys get less attractive names, being made for work and wisdom rather than pleasure and dancing. Thus we find a little two-year-old Practical Industry; three-year-old, Ancestral Knowledge; four-year-old, Complete Virtue; five-year-old, Discreet Valor. To their slaves they give still another set of names. Not For Me, Joy to Serve, Your Happiness and Humble Devotion may be taken as typical examples.

Their Troubles.
"You've got no grounds to envy me," said the millionaire to the beggar. "I've got just as many troubles as you have."
"No doubt yer right, boss," said the beggar humbly, "but the difficulty with me is I ain't got nothin' else."

Didn't Pass It.
A missionary in Trinidad once asked a negro sitting in idleness by the roadside how he managed to pass the time. "I sit in de sun, mamma, and let de time pass me," was the quaint and philosophical reply.

Mrs. W. B. Denman and daughter Miss Grace, of South State street, were in Columbus today, visiting friends.

Deafness Cannot be Cured
By local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness caused by catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.
